

The Thunder Throne

“NOOOOO!” Cevon screamed. He was scared because he had a horrible vision of his father being overthrown from the Thunder Throne. He lived in the dull town of Dullington.

“Cevon! Breakfast’s ready!” Cevon’s mom Enola said. Cevon quickly ran, dumping cereal into his mouth. “Cevon, have you even brushed your teeth yet?” Enola yelled after him.

Cevon threw his shoes on and said “Zap! Blap! Make me go fast!”, boosting out of the house to a far-out mountain. He grunted and ran in a few circles and out of all his fingers came a bright blue electricity which formed a portal to the most unreachable place on Earth, New Volt Kingdom. There, a group called the Lighters produced electricity for the world!

Cevon quickly said, “1 2 3 Zap! Prince!” and showed the ID too. He quickly ran to the Royal Castle. Suddenly, a huge beam of light that showed the sign of the Lighters quickly spread through the force field sky. Everyone gasped as they saw the Dark Devil, an evil eagle controlled by the Lighters.

It swooped Cevon’s father, King Electric, into the Jolting Jungle of the Unknown. Suddenly, some of the Lighters came from the castle and chased Cevon so they could put him in the Jolting Jungle too!

As he fought the Lighters off, he realized the force field was wearing out! New Volt was protected from being burnt by the core of the Earth because of that force field! Cevon finally got to the King’s Royal Room, where the legendary Thunder Throne sat.

He tripped at the Thunder Throne, where the leader of all the Lighters and robots sat as the new king of not just the workers, but everything now! His name was Lighten Bulblington III of Lights.

“We must stop fighting or else the force field will sadly collapse!” Cevon declared in anger. “I will save New Volt Kingdom by fixing the force field so it can last for eternity. Then, we must talk about my father.”

“Your father is not a topic needed in this deal! He is a tyrant! Now how will you save New Volt?” Lighten Bulblington III said.

“I will sacrifice my powers...” Cevon said sadly. “But you have to work a bit during the day,” he added cleverly.

“We will work hard during the morning and have a break during the last hours of the day. Deal?!” the Lighters asked.

“Deal!” Cevon answered. He zapped with all his might and the force field began glowing and expanding. He sat on the Thunder Throne and grandly said “Day and night has come to us!”

Cevon was king, the Lighters got breaks, but King Electric was never found. He might be gone, but his son became the greatest king in the history of New Volt .

THE END

FUN FACT: Did you know the hero name “Cevon” is “NOVEC” backwards!

Written by Akilan Prasanna, 4th Grader (9 years old) from Pinebrook Elementary School, Aldie, VA 20105